

Are dams and reservoirs good or bad?

What are the implications for environmental sustainability?

What is the difference between food self-sufficiency and food security?

The Water: Systems, Science, and Society Program
Presents Its 5th Annual Leadership Lecture

The Role of Water in the Economic Development of Africa

Kenneth Strzepek, Ph.D.

Professor of Civil, Environmental, and Architectural Engineering, Visiting Professor of Economics, Affiliated Professor in College of Architecture and Planning at the University of Colorado, Visiting Research Fellow at the International Food Policy Research Institute, International Fellow at the Center for Environmental Economics and Policy for Africa

4:00 pm, Friday, April 13, 2007

Nelson Auditorium, Anderson Hall, Tufts University

Reception to Follow